NEW PODCAST

Anxiety, depression, ADHD, eating disorders, and more. Pediatric primary care clinicians report an explosion of mental health concerns in their patients, and the trauma following the COVID-19 pandemic has only intensified this workload.

WIAAP is proud to present "Doctor to Doctor: A Pediatric Mental Health Podcast." This series features compelling and practical conversations with psychiatrists, psychologists, and experts in pediatric mental health. Together, we outline what clinicians need to know about common mental health concerns which are prevalent amongst children and adolescents today.

Program host Dr. Dipesh Navsaria is a pediatrician and past WIAAP president who has seen firsthand the explosion of needs for children and adolescents with mental health care concerns.
